

School Age Solutions for Sleep Problems

- Sleep changes with development, and parents are not always aware of sleep problems in older school-age children
- Bedtime routines and appropriate bedtime scheduling make it easier for children to fall asleep
- A child is never too old to learn to fall asleep independently at bedtime, which can reduce migration into the parent bed
- Daytime practice is essential to master skills that address bedtime fears and worries

